Texas Roadhouse opens

Texas Roadhouse has joined

Concord's lineup of Loudon Road chain restaurants, opening Monday at the location of the former Newick's Lobster House.

As part of its training, the chain invited guests from local food banks, Friends of Forgotten Children and The Friendly Kitchen to enjoy its "legendary steaks, fall-off-the-bone ribs and made-from-scratch sides."

The restaurant at 317 Loudon Road hired a staff of 200 people.

'Ray the Mover' spot leased

The famous Ray the Mover

building on Interstate 293 in Manchester has a new tenant.

Sanford Temperature Control Inc. will now occupy the 35,740-square-foot high-bay warehouse building as its new headquarters. The plumbing and HVAC contractor is located in Milford right now.

"With its room for growth, proximity to major arteries enabling quick trips to Nashua and Concord, and unique location offering a great branding opportunity, we're excited for how this location will enable us to further our mission to 'Give the Trades a Good Home,'" Rich Jordan, owner of Sanford, said in a statement.

Doug Martin and Bob Rohrer, of Colliers International's Manchester office, represented the landlord and assisted the tenant in the transaction.

The demand for high bay warehouse/distribution space has continued while its availability remains limited, Martin said.
